

The Central Baptist suggests that if the most noted preacher of the Gospel were to come to St. Louis and preach, and charge his audience one dollar per head to listen to him, the charge would at once be preferred against him that he preached for money. But when a noted infidel lecturer, as was the case with Colonel Ingersoll, comes and talks against Christianity and the Gospel, charging one dollar admission, not one word is said about his being actuated by money. We are a strange sort of people, anyway.

Some of our exchanges tell of the latest methods of swindling unsuspecting parties, as practiced by a slick-tongued rascal, who calls on the country school teacher, asks the privilege of looking over his books; tells him he has been employed by the County Clerk to visit that particular district with the view of getting some necessary statistics wanted in the County Clerk's office; that the report furnished by the district had been lost. Of course the accommodating teacher grants the request. The examination is made, and when the teacher aforesaid goes to draw the money due him for teaching finds the slick-tongued individual, or some one else, had preceded him with a forged order and drawn all the money to which the teacher was entitled. Two transactions of this kind are reported to have occurred in Clay county recently.

The Cincinnati Riot.

A disgraceful mob began in Cincinnati on Friday night of last week, which was renewed on Saturday night, with an unsuccessful attempt to renew it on Sunday night.

A murder was committed in the suburbs of Cincinnati on the 27th of last December. A German named Berner, and a colored man, killed their employer and appropriated his money to their own use. Both parties, when apprehended, confessed the crime. They were indicted and tried for murder in the first degree—the penalty for which is hanging. The jury, however, returned a verdict of manslaughter, and assessed the punishment of the criminal at twenty years in the penitentiary. This verdict was regarded by many of the good people of Cincinnati as an outrage. They had about come to the conclusion there was no hope of enforcing the law without a change. To bring this about a strong indignation meeting was held. Resolutions denouncing the jury and the uncertain methods of administering the law were passed. The less law-abiding were not satisfied at this, and made an unsuccessful attempt to get possession of the prisoner, whom the Sheriff had hurried off to the penitentiary. There was a conflict between the police and mob, which had greatly increased in numbers and demonstrations of violence. In addition to the Sheriff's posse, the Governor concentrated several regiments of State militia to assist in quelling the riot. On Saturday night the mob succeeded in firing and burning the court-house—a costly structure. When the reckoning was all taken on Monday morning, after the smoke of battle had cleared away, it was found that forty-one persons had been killed and several hundred wounded.

The result of this mob ought to convince every thoughtful man that it is a fearful thing for an enraged people to take the law in their own hands, and avenge wrongs done even by sworn jurymen, who are expected to render their decisions in accordance with the law and evidence.

From Luna C.

OLAPTER, Mo., March 28. Since my last letter was written we have had all kinds of weather, but one kind of mud, deep, black and sticky—when it wasn't fluid. The railroad iron and ties keep a posse of men at work most of the time on a part of the track to keep them (the irons) from disappearing "down in the depths," but the number of stock trains passing is immense. There must be a large demand for lumber this spring, for daily cars pass loaded. I remember hearing Mr. Holcomb say he purchased most of his stock for the yard in Hannibal, so I suppose some of it is his. One disadvantage we have here is the constant influx of tramps. They call daily for breakfast, dinner or supper—healthy, able-bodied looking men; some of them propose to cut wood for a meal, which, as they generally cut about two cord wood sticks, with one eye on the kitchen door all the time, is quite an item to both parties.

There is a railroad water tank here, taken charge of by Lee Freeman, while his father, W. T. Freeman, is postmaster, freight, express and ticket agent; while as telegraph operator we can boast of probably the youngest man in the State, Jack Freeman, only twelve years of age, and he has two or three students under under his charge in telegraphy; among them the trainmaster's son from Moberly. So you see he is competent. Take him out of the office he is a merry, twelve-year-old boy, but in business hours he is a man.

About two weeks ago Mr. Roe bought a new pair of pants, and has just sold them to an Illinois man at an advance price. Another Illinois left this morning for Hannibal to help drive them that far. We are about thirty miles from Hannibal. There is some sickness here now. Our little Clarence and Rolfe have the measles, and I think there is enough to go round.

Mr. Bick does a good deal of shipping of hoop-poles and cord wood. Mr. DeMoss, brother of Mayor DeMoss, of Keytesville, left here last week for Vernon county, on a visit to friends.

Dr. Bowman meets many friends of Chariton's citizens, and is getting to be quite a Monroe county man. As for me, the grass isn't near as green, nor the skies as blue here as they are in Chariton, but the mud is deeper, and the bottom is out.

I think that, judging from the number of deaths in Chariton, there must be a great deal of sickness this spring. I was so sorry to hear of so many dear friends and esteemed acquaintances leaving us, but "God knows best."

We receive our Courier regularly, and its contents devoured instantly. (Private, out loud.) It's lots better than the Appeal, published at Paris.

There are some very fine hogs here—Chester white and Berkshire; while there are a good many nice cattle out in the country, yet I am bound to say the town cows look thin—not like the fat cows about Keytesville. But in justice to the cows, I want also to say that the farmer's wagons here do not feed them as well as in Keytesville.

Hay is $5 per ton, corn $2 25 per barrel delivered, butter 20 cents per pound, eggs 12 1/2 cents per dozen, milk 5 cents per quart, fresh fish 9 cents per pound, beefsteak 12 1/2 cents per pound (the two latter luxuries we only see occasionally,) maple sugar 20 cents per pound and syrup 80 cents per gallon. There are several sugar camps around, but the saccharine product is gobbled before it reaches town.

I have seen several people purchasing plows, &c., preparatory to spring work, but I am afraid, from the prospect now, that those early birds will find their worms frozen or drowned.

As the children have been sick ever since we came here, I can not know much of the outside doings, but will, perhaps, have something to write by the next time.

A brother-in-law of John Beasley lives close to town, and comes in every few days.

The doctor lost his box of medicine somewhere between Bell school-house and Clapper, with his mortar and pestle inside. He don't know whether it was lost or stolen, but it is gone, so he has to play Hamlet, with Hamlet left out, till he can get another. But now-days extracts and tinctures take the place of old-time drugs in bulk, to a great extent.

From Hamden.

A meeting of the special bridge commissioners and citizens interested in the building of a new bridge over the Chariton river, between this place and Salisbury, took place at the time and place given in the bills, and was largely attended. Circumstances were very favorable for viewing the advantages or otherwise of the different sites, the river being bank full and all the sloughs and ponds full of water. After carefully going over the ground at the different locations, and giving due regard to the various interests centering there, the commissioners came to the conclusion to recommend to the court the site agreed upon by the combined boards of Cockrell and Wayland townships, or what is known here as the compromise line, being the point at which the half section line running north and south, in section 27, crosses the river. We understand the prospects are good for getting a bridge built at an early date, and we do hope, for the sake of all parties interested, that we will hear no more of this miserable squabble. Both parties having now made concessions, the hatchet ought to be buried forever. Harmony being restored, a good road can be established across the bottom accessible from all points, and communication once more opened up with the outer world. The burning of our bridge was a great calamity, and has entailed a great deal of hardship upon the people here, and, as a consequence, our people are greatly rejoiced at the prospect of being able to cross the river again at no distant date.

SAMUEL PRATER, convicted at Maryville on the 20th inst. of murder, for the killing of the Pennington family, was taken from jail the following night and hung by a mob.

Tribute of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Chariton Lodge, No. 177, A. O. U. W., held in their hall in Keytesville, Mo., March 25, 1884, the following resolutions in memory of Wm. M. Hill, who died at his residence near this place March 10, 1884, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Our heavenly Father, in His divine wisdom, has removed our brother, Wm. M. Hill, from this earth to the rest that is beyond; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we humbly recognize that power which doeth all things well, we deeply mourn the loss of our brother, who, by his manly, noble traits of character had endeared himself to all. That in his death the order loses a valuable member and our community an honored citizen. That while remembering the ties that bound us to our deceased brother, we would not forget that in his death other and nearer ties were severed; and to the family of brother Hill we tender our sympathies in their hour of sore bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, bearing the seal of the lodge, be handed to the wife of our deceased brother, and that they be printed in some newspaper in the county.

Road Across the Bottom.

Mr. George Friesz, living a short distance west of town, dropped in to see us the other day to renew his covenant with the Courier for another year. Our conversation turned upon the muddy roads across the bottom. He wants better facilities for getting to town, and to this end is heartily in favor of building a levee of sufficient height to be above high water mark, with at least two trestles, each forty yards long. He thinks the people ought to do the leveeing and the county build the trestles. To start the ball to moving he is willing to give $50. Now, if all our citizens would aid this enterprise as they ought, we believe there would be no difficulty in getting the road. Every inhabitant of Keytesville, especially the business men and people west of town, are interested in building the road. It is a shame that something of the sort has not been done long ago. We hope the people will agitate this question, and at an early day call a meeting and ascertain what ought to be done in the premises, and then with willing hands and hearts go to work and do it. If any one has a plan to suggest to secure the result desired, we will gladly give them space, that others may have the benefit of their suggestions.

Shameful.

A small boy was seen terribly drunk on the streets of Keytesville last Saturday. The sight was disgusting to every one that witnessed it. Some one had evidently committed a crime in giving or selling intoxicants to one so young. Sheriff Owen very promptly and properly inquired into the matter, and it is hoped sufficient evidence will be obtained against the guilty party to an indictment by the grand jury, conviction by the court, and the visitation of such punishment as the culprit has so richly merited. Our law-makers here, in their wisdom, enacted laws looking to the protection of the boys against the miserable attempts of those who for money or pure cussedness would debauch them by placing the tempting cup to their lips. The man who in open violation of law and in utter disregard of the well-being of society would thus act, deserves to be treated as a monster and common enemy to the human race.

Judge Young was elected chairman of the meeting, and Jas. Veatch secretary. S. S. Kelo, J. J. Bruce, B. M. Veatch, L. Benecke and John Randolph were elected delegates to the State Convention.

M. H. Holcomb was unanimously elected School Director for the term of three years, and the proposition for an eight months' school next year was carried. The financial statement, prepared by the clerk of the board of directors, showed the district to be in a flourishing condition.

Our Sick.

Mrs. Wm. Ward is quite sick. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. White's baby has been quite sick for some time, but is now convalescent.

We are glad to learn that William Luttrell is recovering from his recent illness. We hope to see him out again soon.

Dr. Aldridge's baby, though still very sick, is some better.

Miss Emma Elliott is some better, although still suffering from rheumatism. She will soon visit Sweet Springs, to try the virtues of their waters. We trust that her visit to these famous springs may be productive of good results, and that she may be restored to her accustomed health.

THERE came nearly being a very serious accident over in the Forks last week, occasioned by the unexpected discharge of a gun in the hands of Charley Parks, the contents of which took effect in the back and arms of Leslie Cloyd, one or two shot passing through his ear. One barrel of the gun had been previously discharged. The boys were playing, when Charley said to Leslie "I will shoot you." Suiting the action to the word, he snapped the lock, as he supposed, of the unloaded barrel; but to his astonishment soon found that he had made a fearful mistake. Fortunately the gun was loaded with small shot, which were easily picked out, having not penetrated very far into the flesh. This ought to be a lesson to Charley that will last him to the end of life.

The practice of pointing guns or pistols in the direction of any person is an abominable one, and should be discontinued by every one in the habit of doing such thoughtless acts. It is always the unexpected event that happens in such cases. The weapon not thought to be loaded is generally the one that does the mischief.

LOUIS GROTTAN, who puts up tobacco at Dalton, recently gave us a statement of a crop of tobacco purchased by him of last year's growth, which for yield "takes the cake" from any yet reported. It was raised by Chris Jacobs, who lives near Dalton. Chris set one and a half acres in white burley tobacco, and delivered therefrom over 2,000 pounds, and received over $200 therefor. Mr. Grotjan did not recollect the exact number of pounds. This statement goes to show that the white burley variety will produce about as many pounds to the acre as any other when properly managed.

Dr. JACKSON'S blood and humor syrup will positively cure all eruptions, ulcers or bad sores upon the body, face or limbs. Will thoroughly cleanse the system and blood of every trace of diseases that have their origin therein. Cures the itch, rheumatism, salt rheum and canker, and is well recommended by the medical profession all over the country. Price $1 per bottle. Sold by Chas. Veatch.

We learn that the saw mill belonging to the Cloyd Brothers, near Shannondale, was burned on Thursday night of last week. It is supposed the wind blew the fire into the sawdust in and around the saw frame, thereby setting it on fire. The mill shed was not burned. We suppose the engine was not injured. The damage done was principally to the saw.

We are very thankful to our friends who have responded to our calls for money due us, but there are still many delinquents who will oblige us greatly by remitting the amount of their indebtedness. Next week, during the Circuit Court, will be a good time for you to pay. If you do not come to court yourselves, doubtless some of your neighbors will—thus you will have an opportunity of sending money if you can't come and bring it.

This young hoodlums who egged a party of negroes last Sunday night week were each fined $1 with trimmings, by Mayor DeMoss. Of course their parents had the fines to pay, and this, considered with the fact that none of the eggs were "bad," a minimum fine was assessed. We think it is about time that the authorities should run the town awhile, and that these young "terrors" should take a back seat.

The Old English Gardiner will be in Brunswick every Saturday and Salisbury every Monday throughout March and April with vegetable and garden seeds—all of the most improved varieties. I will have fine drumhead cabbage seeds at Charley Schell's restaurant for sale. Remember, you will get more good seeds and of the first quality for 50 cents than you can get for $2 of any salesman in America. OLD ENGLISH GARDENER, Keytesville, Mo.

Another Good Man Gone Home.

George W. Cravens, a prominent farmer living five miles southeast of Keytesville, died on the evening of March 31, 1884, after a brief illness of pneumonia, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. The deceased was a native of Howard county, but moved to Chariton county before he had attained his majority. Since then he has lived in the neighborhood where he died. He was our personal friend for over a quarter of a century. In his death we realize a personal bereavement. In 1855 deceased was married to Miss Christina Hershey. Seven children have been born to them, all of whom survive, and with their widowed mother mourn their loss of a loving father and affectionate husband.

Mr. Cravens was what we might call a positive man. In all the relations of life his characteristics were well defined. As a husband he fully appreciated the partner of his life's joys and sorrows. Every fiber of his nature lovingly twined around the family circle, where loving hands and hearts vied with each other in making home attractive. As a father he was painstaking and careful for the welfare of his children. He successfully taught them the principles of honesty and self-reliance. As a neighbor he was kind and obliging; as a citizen he was law-abiding, and had strong convictions of right. He never flinched when duty called. He was industrious—rarely ever idle or triflingly employed. For many years he was a member of the Christian Church, and but few of the congregation were more seldom out of place than he. In other respects he was not demonstrative in his religious life, yet was always "ready to give a reason for the hope that was in him." Brother Cravens was an honored member of the Masonic Order, and was buried at Asbury cemetery with Masonic honors.

OUR street commissioner, George Wilson, has commenced the spring campaign on the streets in earnest. We hope our city fathers will in no way interpose any obstacle to making our streets first-class. Good streets and good side-walks will benefit our town wonderfully. Three cheers for George Wilson, good streets and new sidewalks.

GEORGE DEWEY fell through a hole in the sidewalk going home last Thursday night during the storm, and was almost drowned before he could extricate himself. George says he did not hurt himself, but his clothes were pretty badly abused. If our city authorities do not fix our sidewalks they will have a heavy damage suit on hand one of these days.
